DIGITAL DOGS MOVES TO NEW HEADQUARTERS

Scottsdale Airpark office accommodates expanding team and adds services

SCOTTSDALE, AZ. May 17, 2004 - Digital Dogs, a Scottsdale-based Internet Services company, today announced the successful opening of their new offices. This is the second move in the past two years for Digital Dogs, who are experiencing tremendous growth in their Internet services business.

“With the addition of our four new staff members earlier this year, the time was right to expand our facilities once again,” said Michael Jones, Chief Operations Officer. “This new office space puts Digital Dogs in the heart of the Scottsdale Airpark and gives us the space to continue expanding to meet our client demands with new services such as web and email hosting.”

Digital Dogs has enjoyed a banner year so far in 2004 — drawing customers at a much faster rate than projected and finding revenues more than double from the first two quarters of 2003. With their expansion into the homebuilding industry, Digital Dogs hopes to continue this momentum well into 2005.
